

"I would recommend Woodcote to other parents. I am glad that it is a small school where everyone is very friendly and I have been very satisfied with the educational side. I can tell that all three of my children are comfortable and happy with their teachers." Rachel and Floran Kozman live in Ashby de la Zouch with their son Philip, aged ten, and their seven-year-old twins, Joseph and Esther.

"When Finn started in the reception class at the age of four, nothing was too much trouble for the school. Finn has hemiplegic cerebral palsy and so I talked to the school in advance and explained about his needs. Everyone was very supportive and welcoming and whatever he needed was put into place." Sue and Paul McEniff live in Ashby de la Zouch with their children, Finn, aged nine, and Beatrice, aged seven.

When I'm walking home with Rosie, lots of children from Year Five and Year Six will say hello to her. She knows children higher up in the school that she can go to if she has problems. There is now a culture of everyone looking out for each other at the school, which is lovely." Nicola and Paul Wood live in Ashby de la Zouch with their daughters, Caitlin, aged 15, Sarah, aged 12, and Rosie, aged seven.
