

Maths superstar Sami is being encouraged to fulfil his potential with thoughtful motivation from the staff at Broom Valley Community School

Abid and Aaliyah live in Wellgate in Rotherham with their children, Shifah, aged 15, and Sami, aged ten

Aiming high

Sami has always responded well to the rewards system at Broom Valley Community School and is now excelling in Maths. His parents, Abid and Aaliyah, are delighted that the staff at Broom Valley have judged Sami to be number one in the school for speed and accuracy with times tables and Mental Maths. "Sami loved going to Broom Valley right from the start and he has enjoyed being praised and receiving stickers and awards for his achievements," Abid says.

Enthusiastic

After Sami joined Reception at the age of four, he settled in quickly. "He has come home very excited about school each day and tells us what he has been doing. Having an older sister has made Sami competitive and he has worked hard and achieved well with Maths, reading, and writing. He does Maths at home for pleasure, answering questions on line and trying to complete sums as quickly as he can. He also loves PE and playing football, cricket, and basketball at school," his father says.

Children say

Sami says: "I enjoy learning Maths, playing sport and being with my friends at school."
