

St Mary's has been a supportive influence for David and his daughter Rebecca

Getting to know each other

Rebecca started in Reception and finds school great. She's excited to attend and misses it when we're away. Being new to the country, school have been great in guiding me and assisting with the education system and how everything works", says David.

Always lots to do

St Mary's provides a variety of activities and events for the children and their families to get involved with.

"There are lots of activities to get involved with, the summer fair and winter fair. They are all great ways to feel connected with school. The communication and dialogue with school has always been very good. I assume that school is open and approachable for everyone. I go into school twice a year to learn of Rebecca's progress as well as whether she needs support at home. Rebecca is a hyperactive girl, I know that very well as I was very similar," says David.

Helping to manage change

"There have been periods when Rebecca has had ups and downs and school have always been there. They are extremely supportive especially when there are things happening outside of school that can impact behaviours in school. Mr Roos was prompt to chat with me and provide support. They are very proactive to offer support. They have a 360 approach and are very attentive," says David.

Children say:

Rebecca says: "Art is my favourite lesson."
