

Omar and his daughters Imaan and Eliza feel their lives are enriched by the multi-cultural community at St Mary's CE Primary School

International Community

Being in North London, St Mary's attracts families that have moved to the area from all over the world. "I would say to new families that St Mary's is probably one of the best schools in Barnet. It's got a very traditional feel and has an international community", says Omar.

Christian values

"It's a Church of England school and we're Muslim. The Christian ethos of the school feels inclusive and is very much in line with our values and principles. The children enjoy learning about different religions, and I think it adds a valuable perspective to their outlook on life.

People have their own opinions, but I think the way school provides knowledge and perspective about different things in the world helps the children build their own values and helps them to see we're all very similar in some ways," says Omar.

Children say:

Imaan says: "I'm happy I went to St Mary's."

Eliza says: "I enjoy playing games with my friends."
