

The Rosary Catholic Primary School is an inclusive and welcoming community where Anne-Marie's boys are developing their individual passions

Anne-Marie has Arthur age 11 in Year 6 and Alfred, age 9, in Year 4, they have an older brother who is now in high school

Following in their mum's footsteps

"I went to Rosary so it was very familiar to me when we came to looking at where to send the children for school. Initially, as my husband isn't Catholic, he was a little apprehensive but on visiting he soon changed his mind and could see the potential for the boys to thrive. We found the children to be polite and the fundamental Catholic teaching about forgiveness and treating others with kindness shone through. You want your children to learn kindness and respect for others and that's the environment at Rosary," says Anne-Marie.

Developing individual passions

"Both the boys love Forest School and they love playing sport so they enjoy PE day. Alfred loves English and wants to be a children's author when he grows up so he enjoys reading and writing. Arthur enjoys Maths, that's his jam," says Anne-Marie.

Getting ready for high school

"Arthur's embarking on his SATS so I think once they're out of the way he'll feel better. He's looking forward to heading to high school and being able to walk to school with his older brother. He's ready for what high school brings and he's looking forward to experiencing school with a wider group of people. He's ready for what high school brings because of the excellent foundations built at the Rosary and he's looking forward to experiencing," says Anne-Marie

Children say

Arthur says: "I'm looking forward to making new friends at high school."

Alfred says: "I like the books we read."
